The Master's Message

Brethren,

The vernal equinox, a time of increasing light, resonates deeply with our Masonic journey. Just as we strive for illumination in our Masonic labors, nature itself seems to be undergoing a ritual of being "raised". Nature emerges reborn from winter's slumber. The lengthening days mirror our own path towards greater understanding.

Consider the temple we build within ourselves, a sanctuary for renewal. Spring, in its own way, is a grand, natural temple, where life is restored and refreshed. The restraint of winter's grip, the cultivation of new growth, and the correct knowledge of where we are in this great seasonal cycle are all profoundly Masonic.

Spring embodies the virtues we hold dear: patience, in its measured retreat from winter; fortitude, in its victorious ascent over the cold; and beauty, in the blossoming of creation. Like the Master Mason who patiently guides the Entered Apprentice, spring unfolds its wonders with deliberate purpose.

We know, as surely as the sun's passage, that this season of renewal is fleeting. Summer's heat, autumn's hues, and winter's austere lessons await. Yet, for this moment, we stand at the East, bathed in the increasing light of spring, a symbol of hope and rebirth.

Let us, as Masons, observe this wondrous season with mindful contemplation. May the fragrant blossoms and vibrant colors remind us of the beauty and potential within ourselves and our brotherhood. Let us embrace this time of renewal, and find in its unfolding, a deeper understanding of our own journey towards light.

Fraternally,

Craig Cabot Willis
